

ABSTRACT

An optical component to be mounted on a transfer surface. At least one face of the optical component includes at least one metallized bonding land arranged in a notch for assembly by transfer of the component and soldering of metallized bonding lands on the transfer surface.